Att'y Gen. No. 91-05.

University employee running for legislative seat. — Employees of the University of New Mexico are not barred statutorily from running for legislative seats, but, if elected to the state legislature, they may not simultaneously serve as members of the legislature and as paid university employees. 1990 Op. ARTICLE 5 Legislative Fiscal Control

2-5-1. Legislative finance committee created; terms; vacancies.

A. There is created a continuing joint interim committee of the legislature to be designated the "legislative finance committee". The committee shall be composed of sixteen members, eight members from the house of representatives and eight members from the senate. The chairmen of the house appropriations and finance and house taxation and revenue committees and the senate finance committee or members of their respective committees designated by each of them from time to time shall be members. The minority party shall be represented on the committee by at least one member from each house. Six of the remaining members shall be appointed from the house of representatives by the speaker, and the seven remaining members shall be appointed from the senate by the committees' committee or, if the appointments are made in the interim, by the president pro tempore after consultation with and agreement of a majority of the members of the committees' committee. An appointed member may designate a member of his party to serve in his place at a committee meeting at which the regular member is going to be absent if the member notifies the chairman of the legislative finance committee of his anticipated absence and his designee at least twenty-four hours before the committee meeting. The appointed members of the committee shall be appointed from each house so as to give the two political parties having the most members in each house the same total proportionate representation on the committee as prevails in that house; provided that in the computation, major fractions shall be counted as whole numbers. Minority members from the house shall be appointed by the speaker only from recommendations made by the minority floor leader, although the speaker shall retain the right to reject any such recommendations.

B. Members shall be appointed for terms of two years and shall serve from the time of their appointment until the end of the next session of the legislature. The term of any member shall terminate when the member ceases to be a member of the legislature.

C. Vacancies in the committee may be filled for the unexpired term by appointment from the house or senate respectively by the respective appointing authority that makes the original appointments and subject to the same recommendations; provided the new members shall be from the same house of the legislature and the same party from which their predecessors were appointed. The committee shall elect from its membership such other officers as may be deemed necessary. The officers shall be appointed for terms coterminous with their membership on the committee. Each office shall be alternated between the respective houses each two years. For the terms beginning in 1979, the chairman shall be a senate member and the vice chairman, if any, shall be a house member. The appointing authority of each house shall exercise its appointing authority by naming the chairman or vice chairman, respectively, on this alternating basis.

D. No action shall be taken by the committee if a majority of the total membership from either house on the committee rejects the action.

History: 1953 Comp., § 2-13-8, enacted by Laws 1977, ch. 261, § 8.

ANNOTATIONS

Section does not abrogate common law prohibition of contingency-fee agreements for legislative lobbying. — Where a lobbyist brought an action against the seller of construction equipment, alleging that the seller breached an agreement under which the lobbyist would assist the seller in securing approval of industrial revenue bonds from the county in exchange for a portion of the seller's property tax savings from those industrial revenue bonds, and where the seller moved for summary judgment, arguing that the contingency-fee agreement was unenforceable as in contravention of New Mexico's public policy, and where the lobbyist claimed that the state legislature abrogated the common law's prohibition of contingency-fee agreements for legislative lobbying by adopting § 2-11-8 NMSA 1978, the district court did not err in granting the seller's motion for summary judgment, because in the absence of explicit statutory abrogation, the common law continues to prohibit enforcement of contingency-fee agreements for legislative lobbying. Midway Leasing, Inc. v. Wagner Equip. Co., 842 Fed.Appx. 209 (10th Cir. 2021), aff'g 356 F. Supp. 3d 1207 (D. N.M. 2018).

Agreement in contravention of state's public policy against lobbying pursuant to contingent fee agreement. — Where a real estate developer brought an action against the seller of construction equipment, alleging that the seller breached an agreement under which the developer would assist the seller in securing approval of industrial revenue bonds from the county in exchange for a portion of the seller's property tax savings from those industrial revenue bonds, and where the seller moved for summary judgment, arguing that the alleged agreement was unenforceable as in contravention of New Mexico's public policy, it was held that although this section only prohibits contingent fee agreements for lobbying before the state legislature or governor, the public policy expressed in this section by the New Mexico legislature voids the contingency fee agreement for lobbying before the county commission at issue here. All agreements whose object or tendency is to improperly interfere with or influence legislative action are contrary to public policy and void. Midway Leasing, Inc. v. Wagner Equipment Co., 356 F. Supp.3d 1207 (D. N.M. 2018).

Contributions to candidates for federal office. — The prohibition against legislative session fund raising in Section 2-11-8.1 NMSA 1978 does not apply to contributions to candidates for federal office based on the doctrine of federal preemption and because Section 2-11-8.1 NMSA 1978 does not regulate contributions to candidates for federal office. 2007 Op. D. Any person who fails to file or files a report after the deadline imposed by the Lobbyist Regulation Act shall be liable for and shall pay to the secretary of state fifty dollars ($50.00) per day for each regular working day after the time required for the filing of the report until the complete report is filed, up to a maximum of five thousand dollars ($5,000).

E. If the secretary of state determines that a reporting entity subject to the reporting provisions of the Lobbyist Regulation Act has failed to file or has filed a report after the deadline, the secretary of state shall by written notice set forth the violation and the fine that may be imposed and inform the reporting individual that the individual has ten working days from the date of the letter to come into voluntary compliance and to provide a written explanation, under penalty of perjury, stating any reason why the violation occurred. If a timely explanation is filed and the secretary of state determines that good cause exists to waive the imposition of a fine, the secretary of state may by a written notice of final action partially or fully waive the imposition of a fine for any late report or statement of no activity. A written notice of final action shall be sent by certified mail. The secretary of state may file an appropriate court action to remit outstanding fines for good cause or refer unpaid fines for enforcement pursuant to Subsection F of this section.

F. The secretary of state may refer a matter to the state ethics commission for a civil injunctive or other appropriate order or enforcement.
