

R. v. Bouvier, 2017 NWTSC 45

S-1-CR2016000065

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE NORTHWEST TERRITORIES

IN THE MATTER OF:

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

- vs. -

MARTY BOUVIER

---

Transcript of the Decision (Defence Application to Recuse Her Honour) by The Honourable Justice S. H. Smallwood, at Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories, on April 5th A.D., 2017.

---

APPEARANCES:

Mr. B. Green:	Counsel for the Crown
Mr. J. Bran, agent
Ms. A. Seaman:	Counsel for the Accused

-----
No information shall be published in any document or broadcast or transmitted in any way which could identify the victim or a witness in these proceedings pursuant to s. 486.4 of the Criminal Code

An Order of the Court has been made prohibiting publication, broadcast, or transmission of information contained herein pursuant to s. 648 of the Criminal Code

Official Court Reporters

1 THE COURT: Good morning.

2 MR. GREEN: Good morning, Your Honour.

3 MR. BRAN: Good morning, Your Honour, I
4 am appearing as agent for Mr. Bouvier's
5 counsel. Mr. Bouvier is appearing by video 6 and I have spoken to him, and we are ready to 7 receive the Court's decision.

8 THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

9 So first, we will deal with the decision 10 which I had given on the previous date, on the 11 27th, following the application for the change
12 of venue regarding the recusal application
13 made by defence.

14 So the accused Marty Bouvier is charged on 15 an Indictment with two counts, that he 16 committed a sexual assault on J.C. contrary to 17 section 271 of the Criminal Code, and that he 18 uttered a threat to J.C. to cause death to her 19 and her family contrary to section 264.1(1)(a) 20 of the Criminal Code, both of which are 21 alleged to have occurred on January 1st, 2016, 22 in Behchokò.

23 Mr. Bouvier has elected trial by Judge and 24 jury, and the trial has yet to be scheduled.

25 The Crown brought an application to have 26 the venue of the trial moved from Behchokò and 27 the grounds for seeking the change of venue

1           were stated to be that it would be 2           impracticable to impanel a jury in Behchokò 3           given the notoriety of the accused, and that 4           it would impose an unnecessary and 5           inappropriate burden on the victim to hold the 6           trial in Behchokò.

7           The application was heard before me on 8           February 27th, 2017, and I reserved decision
9           at that time.

10          Following the application, counsel for Mr.
11          Bouvier requested that I recuse myself from 12          the eventual trial of this matter. I heard 13          submissions from the Crown and the defence and 14          dismissed the application to recuse myself, 15          indicating that reasons would be provided at 16          the next date. So the reasons that I am 17          providing now are on the application for the 18          recusal.

19          The accused's request that I recuse myself
20          was based upon the bad character information 21          that I had heard about the accused during the 22          change of venue application and that the 23          information that had been provided was 24          prejudicial and would impact how I would view 25          the accused and how I would treat him during 26          the trial.

27          The test for a Judge to recuse themselves

1 is whether the applicant has established that 2 there is a reasonable apprehension of bias on 3 the part of the Judge. The applicable
4 principles were stated by Justice Vertes in 5 Werner v. The Queen, 2005 NWTCA 05 when he was 6 sitting as a member of the Northwest 7 Territories Court of Appeal. I am going to 8 quote several paragraphs of Justice Vertes' 9 decision because it succinctly sets out the 10 applicable principles, starting at paragraph 11 11:

12 That test, for recusal of judges
13 on the basis of a reasonable 14 apprehension of bias, is 15 well-established. It is based on 16 the formulation set out by 17 deGrandpré J. in *Committee for 18 Justice and Liberty v. National
19 Energy Board*, 1976 CanLII 2 (SCC),
20 [1978] 1 S.C.R. 369 (at p. 394):
21 Would the reasonable, right-minded
22 and properly informed person,
23 viewing the matter realistically
24 and practically, think that there 25 is a real likelihood or 26 probability of bias so as to 27 render the trial unfair?

21 This test for recusal has been 22 restated time and again as the 23 sole test: R. v. R.D.S., 1997
24 CanLII 324 (SCC), [1997] 3 S.C.R.
25 484; *Wewaykum Indian Band v.
26 Canada*, 2003 SCC 45 (CanLII),
27 [2003] 2 S.C.R. 259.

25 There are a number of points that 26 need to be noted so as to provide 27 context to the issue of judicial recusal.

27 There is a strong presumption of judicial impartiality and the

1 threshold for a finding of bias, 2 real or apprehended, is 3 necessarily high. Thus there must 4 be cogent grounds. Mere suspicion
5 is not enough. And it is 6 important to note that the test is 7 not whether a party to the 8 proceeding (such as the applicant)
9 would reasonably apprehend bias
10 but whether the reasonable and
11 informed member of the public
12 would apprehend it.

13 Numerous cases and articles also 14 emphasize the fact that it is not 15 in the public interest to have 16 judges easily disqualified. A low
17 standard would lead to delays 18 because it would encourage 19 tactical motions by litigants
20 seeking another Judge when they 21 may anticipate an unfavorable
22 outcome. It would also make it 23 extremely difficult run cases on 24 an efficient basis in small 25 centres (such as Hay River) where 26 there may be few judges and a 27 likelihood that litigants who appear frequently in the courts would often appear before the same judge.

18 These principles were restated recently in 19 Heffel v. Registered Nurses Association 2015
20 NWTSC 16 where, at paragraphs 95 and 97,
Justice Schuler stated:

21 The accepted test for reasonable 22 apprehension of bias was stated by 23 de Grandpré J. in Committee for
24 Justice and Liberty v. National
25 Energy Board, 1976 CanLII 2 (SCC),
26 [1978] 1 S.C.R. 369 (at p. 394):
27 "what would an informed person,
viewing the matter realistically and practically - and having thought the matter through - conclude. Would he think that it is more likely than not that [the decision-maker], whether consciously or unconsciously,

1           would not decide fairly.”

2           The cases note that there is a 3           strong presumption of judicial 4           impartiality and the threshold for 5           a finding of real or apprehended
6           bias is high, requiring that there
7           be cogent grounds. Mere suspicion
8           is not enough. As Vertes J.A.
9           noted in Werner, the test is not 10          whether a party to the proceeding
11          would reasonably apprehend bias,
12          but whether the reasonable and
13          informed member of the public
14          would apprehend it (at paragraph 15          [14]). The member of the public 16          is one who is reasonable, not a 17          person of “very sensitive or 18          scrupulous conscience”.

19                 In this application, there was evidence
20                 that was filed by the Crown, and it was filed 21                 in support of the application for the change
22                 of venue. It consisted of the offence record 23                 report for the accused which indicated that he 24                 had a number of convictions, mainly 25                 convictions for breaches of court-ordered 26                 conditions, that he also had a conviction for 27                 an assault in 2015, and a conviction for 28                 sexual assault in 2015.

29                 Affidavits were also filed by S.C., who is 30                 the adoptive mother of the alleged victim in 31                 this matter; from John Gouthro, the principal 32                 of school in Behchokò, and Constable Bennett,
33                 who had been stationed in Behchokò from 2014
34                 to 2016.

35                 The Crown also filed other material

1 relating to statistical information regarding 2 the community of Behchokò as well as to the 3 difficulties in selecting juries in Behchokò
4 since 2013.

5 The affidavits that were filed primarily 6 speak to the accused's reputation in the 7 community and his alleged reputation as 8 someone who has committed sexual assaults
9 against young persons. The affidavits refer 10 to the deponents' concerns as well as the 11 concerns that they say that other members of 12 the community have about Mr. Bouvier.

13 They allege that Mr. Bouvier has a 14 reputation in Behchokò and is known amongst at 15 least some members of the community for having 16 committed a sexual assault and perhaps other 17 sexual assaults for which he was either not 18 charged or convicted.

19 Judges are called upon to make 20 applications regarding the admissibility of 21 evidence on a daily basis; for example,
22 whether the accused can be cross-examined on a 23 criminal record, whether a statement given by 24 the accused to the police is admissible, 25 whether prior acts committed by the accused 26 are admissible as similar-fact evidence. Many 27 of these applications involve hearing evidence

1           that do not cast an accused in a positive
2           light. Judges are required to make a ruling 3           and are then expected to continue on with the 4           trial. It is not presumed that following this 5           that a Judge will be required to recuse 6           themselves because of the bad character or 7           other negative evidence that they have heard 8           about the accused.

9           There is a strong presumption of judicial 10          impartiality. Judges are expected to put 11          aside inadmissible evidence and decide cases
12          impartially and on the basis of the admissible 13          evidence before them. That is not to say that 14          there cannot be situations where a Judge may 15          be in a position where there is real or 16          apprehended bias, but as the cases state there 17          must be cogent grounds and mere suspicion is 18          not enough.

19          The affidavits filed on this application 20          are somewhat vague and do not provide a lot of 21          information about the incidents that Mr.
22          Bouvier is alleged to have committed. It also 23          appears that they refer to incidents for which 24          Mr. Bouvier was either never charged or 25          convicted of a criminal offence. And I am not 26          certain how helpful these affidavits are in 27          terms of providing specific evidence about Mr.

1           Bouvier's actions, but they do indicate that 2           some members of the community have concerns
3           about Mr. Bouvier and that he has a certain 4           negative reputation amongst those members.
5           Whether those concerns or that reputation is 6           well founded or not is another issue.

7           Mr. Bouvier has also had a show cause 8           hearing on these charges and he has had a 9           section 525 bail review in front of Justice 10          Mahar of this Court. At that hearing, similar 11          information was put before Justice Mahar
12          regarding Mr. Bouvier's background and more 13          specific information was provided regarding 14          the offence itself and his criminal history.
15          If I were to recuse myself on the basis of the 16          information provided at the change of venue 17          application, then it seems that there would be 18          grounds for Justice Mahar to be asked to 19          recuse himself on a similar basis.

20          It may be, as well, that Mr. Bouvier will 21          appear in front of another Judge for another 22          section 525 bail review or another application
23          which could result in another Judge hearing
24          similar information about Mr. Bouvier.

25          As Justice Vertes observed in the Werner
26          case, a low standard for having Judges 27          disqualified would inevitably result in delays

1           and it can be difficult to have matters
2           proceed expeditiously in this jurisdiction 3           where there are only four resident Supreme 4           Court Judges.

5           In my view, the evidence which has been 6           filed on this application is not sufficient to 7           raise a concern that the Judge hearing the 8           application would have a bias, real or 9           apprehended. A reasonable and informed member 10          of the public would not view the information
11          that was submitted at the change of venue
12          application as resulting in the Judge having a 13          bias against the accused. Members of the 14          public expect Judges to hear these types of 15          applications and then to continue on with the 16          trial. They expect justice to occur in a fair 17          and expeditious manner and not to be delayed
18          or interrupted by a Judge having to recuse 19          themselves following an application where they 20          have heard evidence that is of the type that 21          is regularly considered by a trial Judge.

22          So for these reasons, I dismiss the 23          application to recuse myself.

24          So there is also the issue, Mr. Green, 25          about the publication ban and the notice,
26          which on the last date, the notice 27          requirements had not been complied with.

1 MR. GREEN: Yes, Your Honour, before we 2 move to that, in your reasons on recusal you
3 did identify S.C. as being the adoptive mother
4 of J.C. In light of the 486.4 publication 5 ban, I would ask that in the transcript or any 6 published reasons that Ms. S.C.'s [initials
7 inserted] name also be anonymized.

8 THE COURT: That's fine.

9 -----

10

11 Certified to be a true and 12 accurate transcript pursuant 13 to Rules 723 and 724 of the Supreme Court Rules,

14

15

16

17

---

Lois Hewitt,
Court Reporter

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

