⁸ Waerzeggers, C., & Waerzeggers, C. (2016). Introducing an Advance Tax Ruling (ATR) Regime (No. 16/2). Washington, DC: International Monetary Fund, p.1: A private tax ruling consists of advice that a taxpayer may seek from the tax authority in relation to the application of the tax law to their particular arrangement. The ruling typically binds the tax authority in relation to the arrangement for which it is issued. As such, the taxpayer will ordinarily be protected from additional tax, penalties and interest when relying on the ruling issued. The benefit of a private tax ruling is typically personal to the taxpayer to whom that ruling is issued and is not binding on the tax authority as against other taxpayers, even if the same or similar circumstances exist.

⁹ IDEM, A public ruling: a written opinion by the tax authority dealing with the way in which the tax law applies to taxpayers, or a class of taxpayers, generally. A public ruling is made publically available in full and can be used as a primary means of publishing and disseminating advice on the tax authority's interpretation of the tax laws they administer. These instruments also serve important functions in tax law administration, particularly where they provide guidance with respect to the exercise of discretionary powers contained in a tax law. Public rulings may or may not have legally binding force per se but may, at the very least, create legitimate expectations for taxpayers under general principles of administrative law.

¹² Carlo Romano, Advance Tax Rulings and Principles: Towards a European Tax Rulings, IBFD, 2020, pge 77, Advance tax rulings (also called advance, private or letter rulings) are legal instruments under which taxpayers (or their tax advisors) may obtain a more less binding statement from the tax authorities concerning the treatment of transaction or a series of contemplated future (and sometimes past) actions or transactions. Advance tax rulings are addressed to particular taxpayers upon request and explain how the tax administration will apply the law to a particular taxpayer or group of taxpayers in relation to a transaction, or a series of specified facts or transactions. They are usually referred to as “advance rulings”, since they are usually provided before the taxpayers enter into a transaction or arrangement, or (in certain jurisdictions) after the event but before a taxpayer files a tax return. Such rulings are tailor made for the taxpayer concerned because they take into account the factual situation of the taxpayer and are thus not directly applicable to other taxpayers. They may also provide a determination of whether or how a general ruling applies to the facts and circumstances of a particular taxpayer.

¹³ IBIDEM, Pge 44 “The information given by the respective authority is legally not binding, but protected under the principle of good faith. This means that the taxpayer in general can trust the information, if it is not obviously illegal. In general, the applicant-taxpayer is not bound by the obtained advance tax ruling, which means that he can choose not to do the transaction (but when he does, he has to do it as mentioned in the ruling request).”
