BEFORE THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION

In the Matter of Unfair Labor Practice Charge by RIDGEFIELD EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, Complainant,
 vs.
 RIDGEFIELD SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 122,
 Respondent.

Case No. 391 U-76-44

MEMORANDUM OF DECISION, FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS AND ORDER

Decision No. 102-A-EDUC

Appearances:

Judith A. Lonquist, General Counsel, appearing for and on behalf of the Ridgefield Education Association.

James R. Gregg, Attorney at Law, appearing for and on behalf of Ridgefield School District No. 122.

MEMORANDUM OF DECISION

Background:

On August 6, 1976, the Ridgefield Education Association, Complainant, (hereinafter REA) caused to be filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission (hereinafter PERC), an unfair labor practice charge against Ridgefield School District No. 122, Respondent (hereinafter District), alleging generally that the employer had engaged in unfair labor practices within the meaning of the Educational Employment Relations Act, Chaper 41.59 RCW. In particular, it was

1 | alleged that Respondent: (1) failed to bargain in good faith; (2)
2 | maintained intransigent positions in bargaining; (3) repudiated cer-
3 | tain agreements reached during the course of bargaining; (4) uni-
4 | laterally adopted a salary schedule without bargaining on such sub-
5 | ject on or about July 28, 1976; (5) unilaterally issued individual
6 | contracts reflecting the employer's wages and other conditions of 7 | employment provisions; and (6) refused to meet and otherwise thwarted
8 | the bargaining process by undermining and disparaging the REA as a
9 | representative of its group. Further, by way of amendment to the 10 | charge during the hearing (October 25, 1976) the Complainant alleged
11 | that RCW 41.59.140(1)(d) was violated by District refusals to ap-
12 | prove leaves and by deducting pay from five named employees who had 13 | attended and testified at the hearing.

14 | The pertinent provisions of the Educational Employment Re-
15 | lations Act, (RCW 41.59.140(1)), provide that:

16 | "It shall be an unfair labor practice for an
17 | employer: (a) to interfere with, restrain,
18 | or coerce employees in exercise of the rights
19 | guaranteed in RCW 41.59.060 . . . (d) to dis-
20 | charge or otherwise discriminate against an employee because he has filed charges or given testimony under this chapter; (e) to refuse to bargain collectively with the representatives of its employees. . . ."

21 | The pertinent provisions of RCW 41.59.060(1) provide that:

22 | "(1) Employees shall have the right to self-
23 | organization, to form, join, or assist employee
24 | organizations, to bargain collectively through 25 | representatives of their own choosing, and 26 | shall also have the right to refrain from any 27 | or all such activities except"

1 In response to the former charges, the Respondent District
2 filed an answer denying each allegation.

3 Thereafter, this matter was heard by PERC designated hearing
4 examiner, commencing Wednesday, October 13, 1976. Several dates
5 were utilized to complete the hearing which concluded October 25, 6 1976. Both parties were afforded the opportunity to present tes-
7 timony and evidence. A 747 page transcript and 55 separate exhibits 8 comprise the record of this matter.

9 Jurisdiction:

10 The Respondent in its answer urged that the charge be dismissed 11 for failure to satisfy PERC requirements in WAC 391-30-504 and be-12 cause the charge was not filed by a person designated in WAC 391-30-500.

13 Background of Case:

14 The subject negotiations seeking a "master contract" for school
15 year 1976-77 (TR 406) was initiated in March of 1976 when complainant
16 requested bargaining on such subject. Thereafter, commencing April 27, 17 1976 and for approximately twelve succeeding weeks, regular sessions 18 were held between the respective negotiating teams.

19 The REA's initial proposal contained approximately 41 separate 20 major headings. These were met during the sessions with varying 21 responses by the District.

22 The REA, on or about May 18th, objected to the District's past 23 practice of issuing individual contracts prior to completion of 24 negotiation (TR 30,134). Thereafter, discussions included devel-25 opment of contract rider language which was intended to have 26

1 subsequently developed terms, provisions or agreements apply to the 2 individual teacher contracts. Although the REA negotiating team 3 neither desired nor endorsed the issuance of the individual agree-4 ments, it was realized such was probably going to happen with or 5 without their approval. The District, on its behalf, insisted it 6 had its commitments to make prior to the commencement of the school 7 year by ascertaining which teachers were returning.

8 The central economic item, salaries, was discussed during 9 negotiations when the REA made its proposal of a 15 percent increase.
10 The District countered by a 5 percent increase which included incre-11 mental raises and all other economic benefits. Thereafter REA sub-12 mitted a comprehensive counter to the District's offer which, as to 13 salaries, eliminated certain fringe benefits sought previously by 14 REA. The District's position did not change. Later, even though 15 the District had not moved from its position regarding economic 16 matters, the REA offered a third counter on salaries reducing, once 17 more, the total economic package. The District finally on July 20th 18 produced a "last and best offer" including economic and other 19 provisions which the District agents stated required total accept-20 ance.

21 Events that followed shortly thereafter in rapid succession 22 within several days, included: (1) an REA counterproposal to the 23 last and best offer; (2) rejection by the District with the District 24 insisting negotiations were finished justifying adoption by the 25 District and submittal to teachers of individual contracts based 26

1 on the last and best offer terms. As these events became imminent, 2 the REA caused the present unfair labor practice charge to be filed 3 contending that the issuance of the individual contracts without 4 having bargained to agreement or impasse is invalid.

5 The voluminous record reflects the efforts by both sides to 6 negotiate a sizable package to common terms. To further compound 7 difficulties, both sides were operating under the terms and pro-8 visions of the new general state law, Chapter 41.59 RCW, for the 9 first time.¹

10 An initial provision of the Educational Employment Relations 11 Act, RCW 41.59.010, indicates its purpose is:

12 "to preserve certain rights and obligations
13 of the educational employees of the school 14 district of the State of Washington, and to 15 establish procedures governing the relation-16 ship between such employees and their em-17 ployers which are designed to meet the 18 special requirements and needs of public 19 employment in education.

20 Additionally, in developing interpretations of Chapter 21 41.59 RCW, PERC by, RCW 41.59.110(2) is to consider:

22 (2) The rules, precedents, and practices
23 of the national labor relations board, pro-
24 vided they are consistent with this chapter, 25 shall be considered by the commission in its 26 interpretation of this chapter, . . ."

27 ¹Chapter 41.59 RCW became effective January 1, 1976, see 28 RCW 41.59.940.

1 Accordingly, applicable precedents of the NLRB warrant rec-2 itation for the charges, as filed, present issues basic to nego-
3 tiating practice consistent with the right of collective bargaining 4 discussed in RCW 41.59.060(1), supra. Such issues included the 5 question of whether or not the salary adoption and contract issuance 6 by the District occurred after reaching an impasse. If so, such 7 conduct arguably was legally allowable. If not, the charge may be 8 well founded.

9 First, note NLRB v. Katz, 369 US 736, 50 LRRM 2177, (1962)
10 where the U. S. Supreme Court recognized the principle that the 11 duty to bargain collectively under the National Labor Relations 12 Act² could be violated without a general failure of subjective good 13 faith. In other words, "an employer's unilateral change in conditions 14 of employment under negotiations" is a violation "for it is a cir-
15 cumvention of the duty to negotiate which frustrates the objectives 16 of §(d)(5) much as does a flat refusal." The court, there, recognized 17 authority of the NLRB at P. 2182:

18 " . . . to order the cessation of 19 behavior which is in effect a re-
20 fusals to negotiate, or which directly 21 obstructs or inhibits the actual process
22 of discussion, or which reflects a cast 23 of mind against reaching agreement. Uni-24 lateral action by an employer without 25 prior discussion with the union does 26 amount to a refusal to negotiate about 27 the affected conditions of employment under negotiation, and must of necessity obstruct bargaining, contrary to the 28 ²29 USC §158(a)(5), §8(a)(5), 49 Stat. 452 as amended.

1 congressional policy. It will often
2 disclose an unwillingness to agree
3 with the union. It will rarely be 4 justified by any reason of substance.
5 It follows that the Board may hold 6 such unilateral action to be an un-7 fair labor practice in violation of 8 §8(a)(5), without also finding the 9 employer guilty of overall subjective
10 bad faith. While we do not foreclose 11 the possibility that there might be 12 circumstances which the Board could 13 or should accept as excusing or justi-
14 fying unilateral action, no such case
15 is presented here."³ (Emphasis supplied)

16 Elsewhere, the NLRB has described in Taft Broadcasting Co., 17 64 LRRM 1386 (1967), applicable elements for ascertaining whether 18 a bargaining impasse exists at p. 1388:

19 ³Note, too, RCW 41.59.020(2) defines the term "collective 20 bargaining" or "bargaining" to mean: The performance of the mutual 21 obligation of the representatives of the employer and the exclusive 22 bargaining representatives to meet at reasonable times in light of 23 the time limitations of the budget-making process, and to bargain 24 in good faith in an effort to reach agreement with respect to the 25 wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment: PROVIDED, 26 That prior law, practice or interpretation shall be neither re-27 strictive, expansive, nor determinative with respect to the scope of bargaining. A written contract incorporating any agreements reached shall be executed if requested by either party. The obligation to bargain does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or to make a concession.

In the event of a dispute between an employer and an exclusive bargaining representative over the matters that are terms and conditions of employment, the commission shall decide which item(s) are mandatory subjects for bargaining and which item(s) are non-mandatory.

26 MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
27 FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS
AND ORDER, P-7

1 "Whether a bargaining impasse exists
2 is a matter of judgment. The bargain-
3 ing history, the good faith of the 4 parties in negotiations, the length
5 of the negotiations, the importance 6 of the issue or issues as to which 7 there is a disagreement, the con-8 temporaneous understanding of the 9 parties as to the state of negotia-
10 tions, are all relevant factors to be 11 considered in deciding whether an 12 impasse in bargaining existed. . . ."
13 (Emphasis supplied.)

14 In order to apply such elements to a given negotiating 15 situation the bargaining record in its totality must be examined.
16 See, also, Marine & Shipbuilding v. NLRB, 53 LRRM 2878 (1963) where 17 the Third Circuit Court of Appeals indicated that whether a deadlock 18 "legally" justifies a unilateral alteration in the conditions of 19 employment is, at the very least, a mixed question of law and fact.
20 Note, too, at p. 2883 the authorities cited supporting the proposition 21 that "no legally cognizable impasse", i.e., a deadlock in negotiations 22 which justifies unilateral action, exists if a cause of the dead-23 lock is the failure of one of the parties to bargain in good faith.

24 The essential arguments of the REA are that without reaching 25 impasse the District had issued unilaterally adopted salary schedules 26 in the form of individual contracts along with copies of its "last 27 and best" offer to each employee. Further, REA urges that although 28 the District may have had a duty, otherwise, to effectuate written 29 contracts for its employees before the school year commenced, such 30 did not warrant a new unilateral salary schedule.

31 MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
32 FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS
33 AND ORDER, P-8

1 REA urges also that PERC regulation, WAC 391-30-552(4), applies 2 as such rule contemplates exhaustion of mediation and fact finding 3 in RCW 41.59.120 prior to implementing part or all of a final offer
4 in negotiations. Such regulation, however was not adopted by PERC
5 on an emergency basis until August 5, 1976 and thus is inapplicable
6 to the instant proceedings which occurred prior to the effective 7 date of such rule.

8 REA additionally urges that bad faith bargaining was evidenced, 9 amongst other things, by the District's modification of its original 10 position on only a few (approx. 5) of the initial 45 proposals.
11 REA argues that such inflexible position by the District on major 12 portions of the discussions asserted as being nonmandatory, supports 13 such charge.

14 Lastly, REA urges discriminatory treatment of five employees 15 who appeared and testified at the hearing under subpoena as they were 16 "docketed a full day's pay" for each day of absence which events 17 it is contended amounts to a separate unfair labor practice under 18 RCW 41.59.140(1)(d), supra.

19 In response the District's position essentially is that the 20 charge was unspecific in form and failed to satisfy PERC regulations.
21 That many "oral proposals and discussions" were exchanged regarding 22 the 41 proposals reflected by written agreements and understandings 23 concerning "tentative agreements, trade items, cluster approval 24 requirements and priority schedules." That the obligation to bargain 25 does not compel either party to agree or make concessions (See 26

27 MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS
AND ORDER, P-9

1 RCW 41.59.020(2)) and that the REA was urging adoption of certain 2 key issues under threat of filing the Unfair Labor Practice charge.

3 Additionally, the District urged no evidence was presented of 4 intransigent position in bargaining and that as no actual agree-5 ments were reached on given items but rather only "tentative" agree-6 ments repudiation of such could not occur.

7 As to unilateral salary adoption, the District urged that by 8 RCW 28A.67,066 and RCW 28A.67.070 it had statutory authorization to 9 select those teachers it wished to employ without becoming subject 10 to renewal of all contracts under RCW 28A.67.070. That the contract 11 "rider" language demonstrated that such contracts were "subject to" 12 the bargaining proceedings and thus, basically, immunized such activity 13 from any charge of an unfair labor practice. That no "specific" 14 requests for change of ground rules of the negotiating session numbers 15 or proceedings were put forth. That no evidence of failure to recognize 16 the REA was presented and that the material (the last and best offer) 17 sent to each employee, when the contract offers were mailed was 18 authorized by RCW 41.59.140(3) respecting the public dissemination 19 of information.

20 The District also urges that it was justified in "docking 21 the pay" of five employees who attended the hearing, for their 22 presence was contrary to District policy, and this presence not 23 by PERC subpoena.

24 Lastly, the District renews its position that all evidence
25 received about negotiation matters after the Unfair Labor Practice 26 charge was filed is irrelevant and improper.

27 MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS
AND ORDER, P-10

1 Before analyzing in detail such arguments, it should be mentioned
2 that the parties did take strong positions throughout the negotiations 3 and their respective sides were amply and ably represented during 4 the hearings. Since the parties have eschewed other interim 5 solutions to their dispute either by mutual agreement, or by utilization 6 of the several other mechanisms contained in Chapter 41.59 RCW for 7 dispute resolution the examiner's duty is to proceed to adjudicate 8 the instant matter based on the evidence presented.

9 The examiner concluded by order previously issued in this matter 10 that the District's motion to make the complaint more definite and 11 certain should be denied. Although more precise and specific allegations 12 or charges would be of value to all concerned, and I urge PERC to 13 expect such details in future filings, no prejudicial error for 14 such ruling is felt to exist in the instant matter.

15 Insufficient evidence was presented warranting a finding that 16 an unfair labor practice was committed respecting bad faith bargain-17 ing, regarding the modification of positions, the taking of intransigent 18 positions or the alleged failure to recognize the REA.

19 Insufficient evidence and authorities were presented to warrant 20 a finding that the District's docking of pay of five employees for 21 attending this hearing was an unfair labor practice charge for the 22 District's policy arguably required advance permission which had not 23 been obtained.

24 As to the District argument of irrelevancy for evidence about 25 negotiations after the filing of the Unfair Labor Practice such

1 | position, in the face of authorities referenced above, is with-
2 | out merit.

3 | As to the District position that it had authority to select
4 | teachers it wished without becoming subjected to the renewal of all
5 | contracts under RCW 28A.67.070, such argument misconstrues the 6 | impact of RCW 28A.67.070 and ignores the District's obligation to 7 | its employees under Chapter 41.59 RCW to bargain collectively.

8 | The language of RCW 28A.67.070 indicates that notification of 9 | non renewals for district teachers is to occur "in writing on or 10 | before May 15th preceeding the commencement of such terms of that
11 | determination." (Changed from April 15th effective in June 1976.)
12 | Thus, in July - August 1976, when the District opted to issue con-
13 | tracts it had already passed such statutory guidepost for narrowing
14 | the selection of teachers. Although such law, called the "continuing 15 | contract law", does not automatically create an enforceable employ-
16 | ment contract when the non renewal date is passed, it does reveal
17 | an obligation on the District's part to offer renewal of employment
18 | to all teachers previously employed for the ensuing year.⁴ Additionally,
19 | although the contract "rider" language may be construed as reflecting
20 | an intent of the parties to have the District's independently adopted

1 salary levels serve only as partial compensation for work performed
2 and thus allow increases if agreed upon to be applied retroactively,⁵ 3 such does not diminish the fact of its adoption during the circumstances 4 of this matter.

5 Because an obligation existed on the District's part to bargain
6 collectively respecting such an issue as salaries, the examiner con-
7 cludes the evidence supports a finding of an unfair labor practice
8 violation contrary to RCW 41.59.140(1)(e) for the employer to refuse 9 to bargain collectively with the representative of the employees.

10 The District's insistence of a last and best offer, as an all 11 or nothing package without affording the REA a reasonable basis or 12 opportunity to reach agreement on such provisions was the first 13 factual/suspect conduct. Thereafter, adopting such salary terms without 14 express agreement of the REA further represents facts all warranting 15 such conclusion.

16 The rider language referenced by the parties does not, in the 17 examiner's opinion, exempt the conduct of the District in the cir-18 cumstances of this problem from such a conclusion. The District 19 could have satisfied its statutory obligations under Chapter 20 28A.67 RCW and Chapter 41.59 RCW by taking a position somewhat less 21 conditioned on total acceptance of the last and best offer.

26 MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS
AND ORDER, P-13

1 This conclusion is naturally premised upon the further fact 2 that in the examiner's judgment, based upon the factors for ascer-3 taining the existence of an impasse described in Taft, supra, the 4 evidence does not support the District's witnesses' insistence that 5 an impasse had been reached when the last and best offer was made and 6 when the salary therein was included in contract offers made.

7 The examiner cannot predict the ultimate course of this matter, 8 however an appeal does lie to PERC within 20 days by WAC 391-30-534.
9 Also alternatives do exist before the parties, in the face of the instant 10 decision, including continued negotiations on the strength of the 11 contract rider provisions with the hope of satisfactory results for 12 both sides. It is hoped the instant decision ultimately will serve 13 "to promote peace in labor relations" as is PERC policy described 14 in WAC 391-08-003.

15 Having heard the evidence, examined the record and submitted 16 briefs, the hearing officer makes the following Findings of Fact, 17 Conclusions of Law and Order pursuant to WAC 391-30-514.

18 FINDINGS OF FACT

19 I

20 That PERC has jurisdiction over the parties to this charge to-21 gether with the subject matter thereof pursuant to Chapter 41.59 RCW 22 and implementing regulations thereto.

23
24
25 MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
26 FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS
27 AND ORDER, P-14

1 II

2 That an unfair labor practice charge filed by an attorney for 3 a party under RCW 41.59.140 is authorized pursuant to WAC 291-08-010.

4 III

5 That during the course of successive bargaining sessions between 6 the charging party and the District, a wide range of issues were 7 negotiated. One central issue, salaries, eventually became imbedded 8 in the District's "last and best offer" extended to the charging 9 party along with other provisions and economic matters on or about 10 July 20, 1976. The District witnesses contended negotiations were 11 finished, and insisted that the last and best offer required a total 12 acceptance.

13 IV

14 The charging party contended that negotiations were still open 15 at the time of the last and best offer. Whether impasse had been 16 reached in context of this matter is a mixed question of fact and 17 law. That no subjective bad faith bargaining by the District was 18 found, however insistence of an all or nothing position for its last 19 and best offer directly inhibited the process of discussion at a 20 critical stage of bargaining. That the thrust by the charging party 21 of filing the instant unfair labor practice charge did little to ease 22 tension or enhance the discussion process.

V

That insufficient evidence was presented to establish that an unfair labor practice was committed by the District as to: taking any intransigent positions; repudiating agreements, or failing to recognize the REA as the bargaining representative.

VI

That no impasse had been reached when the last and best offer was made or implemented by the District.

VII

That by a preponderance of the evidence presented insisting on an all or nothing approach in its last and best offer, the District conduct was inimical to the collective bargaining rights intended by the legislature for educational employees in Chapter 41.59 RCW. That such conduct inhibited the actual process of discussion.

VIII

That issuance of individual contracts, while generally contemplated by law in RCW 28A.67.060 and .070 and certainly anticipated generally by these parties during the course of these negotiations, does not in and of itself, in the context of the circumstances of this problem warrant circumvention of the statutory bargaining process contemplated by law of salary matters.

That such contracts, coupled with a transmittal of the District's last and best offer reflects unilateral action in the circumstances of this case warranting PERC's issuance to the District of a cease and desist order against such practice in the future.

MEMORANDUM OF DECISION,
FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS

1 CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

2 I

3 That RCW 28A.67.070 requires written contracts by school districts
4 with teachers as certificated employees without expressly specifying 5 when such agreement need be entered.

6 II

7 That no impasse had been reached by the parties when the District
8 issued its last and best offer and implemented the salary schedule 9 of same.

10 III

11 That RCW 41.59.140(1)(e) was violated by the District when it 12 insisted on an all or nothing acceptance to a last and best offer and 13 thereafter adopted the salary schedule therein unilaterally.

14 ORDER

15 WHEREFORE, on behalf of PERC the Respondent Ridgefield School
16 District, No. 122 is ordered to cease and desist from such practices
